Herbalife Nutrition will help fuel more than 4,000 Stair Climb participants with water and energy bars as they ascend 1,664 steps to reach the pinnacle of the US Bank Tower in Downtown Los Angeles.

"At Herbalife Nutrition we are driven by purpose – to make the world healthier and happier – and we proudly support the YMCA and our shared mission of promoting a healthy and active lifestyle," said Neil Spiers, vice president, Global Business Services, Herbalife Nutrition and Downtown YMCA board member. To help boost all participants on their journey to the top, Herbalife Nutrition is donating more than 10,000 products, including Herbalife24 Achieve Bars, CR7 Drive sports drink mix, bottles of water and Protein Deluxe Bars.

The Company's support of YMCA is part of Herbalife Nutrition's broader community engagement program aimed at promoting good nutrition, including aid to the American Red Cross for its local, national and global disaster relief and emergency preparedness efforts. The Company's philanthropic focus of helping provide nutrition support to vulnerable children and families around the world, is actuated in the L.A. area through several local charity organizations, including 'A Place Called Home,' the Children's Institute Inc., and the Union Rescue Mission.

"We are deeply grateful for Herbalife Nutrition's partnership and participants love the energy boosting and thirst-quenching products that they generously provide," said Ketchum-Downtown YMCA's Executive Director, Carol Pfannkuche. "We value the support from businesses like Herbalife Nutrition who help us achieve our goal of creating lasting personal and social change in our communities."

This is the 25th Anniversary of the Stair Climb for the Los Angeles YMCA. The event raises funds for the community and supports numerous subsidized YMCA programs, including those that fight obesity, and helps make possible participation for children, teens, families, and seniors in some of the most under-resourced neighborhoods in the city.
